

Dollars Want Me: The New Road to Opulence (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Dollars Want Me: The New Road to Opulence Born in Massachusetts in 1840. Served in U. S. Volunteers during Civil War from August, 1862, until October, 1865. Taught school; worked upon newspapers; lectured in various fields for 17 years; was 7 years a Unitarian minister. I entered my present work of mental healing and teaching in 1893. Editor and publisher on Now since January, 1900. I have thus gained by experience that which I teach in my books. I consider none of them of more immediate practical value than this little book. Grateful for the generous reception of former editions, I now send forth this revised and enlarged edition, trusting it will also win me as many friends as the former has done.
